

Financial Services Essentials

Promote industry standards with tailored training for your workforce on core topics like anti-money laundering, data privacy, and fraud prevention, specifically for financial services.

Over 50% of Financial Services companies are focused on upskilling employees in areas that progress their career and improving diversity.

Compliance

Compliance education for the financial industry ensures your workforce stays current on laws, regulations, and industry best practices around the globe. You can train employees on topics like anti-money laundering, whistleblower protection, and bribery prevention.

Upskilling

Role-specific upskilling to keep employee training relevant and their engagement high. Not all employees in your organization require all trainings. Find role-specific courses like:

- For banking and credit union professionals: error prevention in financial transactions, customer service, servicing loans
- For investment professionals: risk management, scenario planning, market research, portfolio management
- For insurance companies: underwriting policies, assessing risk, managing policyholder relationships, process management

Cert Prep & CPD

Maintain your employee's financial knowledge through continued development. Provide staff with access to CEU & CPD approved courses from accrediting bodies around the globe:

- New York Institute of Finance (NYIF) courses are accredited by NASBA (National Association of State Boards of Accountancy)

Creating an industry-leading learning campus

Challenge

When financial services company Suncorp decided to create an industry-leading online "learning campus" for its network of Vero insurance brokers, it knew that a genuinely collaborative learning platform provider would be critical. Fortunately, it had Go1 in its corner.

Solution

When financial services company Suncorp decided to create an industry-leading online "learning campus" for its network of Vero insurance brokers, it knew that a genuinely collaborative learning platform provider would be critical. Fortunately, it had Go1 in its corner.

"I wouldn't have been able to achieve what I have in the last three-and-a-half years without Go1. We have worked as true partner to build the Vero Learning Campus."
