

Manufacturing Essentials

Automotive, electronic, energy, and medical device manufacturers can optimize operations while still keeping employees safe using interactive compliance and training that meets industry standards.

Employee retention is the #1 learning goal globally in the Manufacturing industry.

Compliance

Go1's content empowers businesses to keep employees safe, manage risk, and promote ethical practices. Compliance training tailored to manufacturing organizations helps you implement industry best practices and stay current on regulations. Whether you're producing cars, electronics, or chemicals, train your employees on health and safety, forklift operations, harassment prevention, and more.

Upskilling

Role-specific upskilling helps organizations optimize supply chain and produce the highest quality products. Stay competitive in a rapidly evolving business environment with manufacturing content for your organization:

- For your production floor: Creating a production strategy, machine operation, Lean manufacturing essentials
- For your quality control team: Quality inspection and assurance, root cause analysis, documentation and reporting best practices, ISO standards
- For your leaders: Change management strategy, decision making, DE&I training, providing feedback, developing first time managers

Cert Prep & CEU/CPD

Prepare your staff for certifications no matter the job function or focus. Employees can prove their expertise through certification prep, CEUs and CPDs, and certificates of completion from brand-name providers like Coursera* and Harvard ManageMentor*. Go1 offers 2000+ ways to pursue certifications for:

Expanding learning opportunities together

When Duravant set out to find a content provider, they didn't just want high-quality content – they wanted a strong partnership they could count on. With Go1, they've found both, and their engagement numbers are continually on the rise.

The Duravant and Go1 partnership

1. Creates opportunity for employees across 15 different operating companies – from senior-level leaders to traveling service technicians – through learning content covering a wide variety of topics.
2. Gives leaders at each operating company the freedom and access to assign training to employees based on their unique needs.
3. Gets employees excited about their development and has led to a continual increase in engagement.

“There's no way that the content won't check the box or solve the challenge. You're getting everything you need with content, but you're getting so much more because you get such strong partnerships.”

Jess Giudici, Director of Talent Management

Content for every need

Duravant partnered with Go1 to offer a unified content solution for employees across all operating companies. Their rapidly increasing engagement numbers show that employees are using content to achieve all kinds of goals.
